Sidney Dillon Re-elected President of the Union Pacific.

SUFFERERS BY SOUTHERN FLOODS NUMBER 45,960.

The Cotton Crop of the South Expected to be Reduced 1,000 000 Bales this Year

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

Boston March 8—The credit [illegible] of Chas A Sweet & Co suspended banking [illegible] a meeting [illegible] day. The following statement was made. Liabilities of all sorts $[illegible] 111 assets [illegible] at [illegible] Massachusetts Central bonds [illegible] the [illegible]. In addition to this is Sweet's private capital $447 000 which is liable for debts of the firm making the total assets $[illegible] 220 [illegible] leaving a surplus of $[illegible],946. No detailed list of creditors or assets was furnished the press. James H Beals president of the Second National bank D B M Whitney president of the Suffolk national bank and Samuel Atherton director of the New England bank were appointed a committee to arrange for settling the firm's affairs and will report Thursday. There seems no doubt of the payment of the firm's liabilities in full and without great delay. The feeling among banks and brokers to-day is more confident and no other failures are probable

Renewed Confidence.

Boston March 7—More confidence is felt to-day in the ability of Sweet & Co to pay in full if extension is granted

Union Pacific Election

At the annual meeting of the Union Pacific railroad company to-day the following directors were elected Sidney Dillon, Elisha Atkins Frederick L Ames Ezra H Baker S H H Clark F Gordon Dexter David Dows Grenville M Dodge T T Eckert Jay Gould Solon Humphreys Russell Sage Augustus Schell Wm H Scott and John Sharp. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Sidney Dillon was re-elected president, and a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent declared. The total earnings this year were $24 258 817 last year $22 455 131 expenses this year $12 480 343 last year $10 54[illegible] net earnings this year $11,778 474 against $11,910 015 last year. The decrease in the net earnings is accounted for by the fact that the company laid $500 794 worth of rails in excess of last year. The debt of the company is $4 036 078 which is more than covered by available bonds, securities and supplies on hand. The company holds securities of other railroads to the amount of $51,773,000, of which $22 000,000 are at par and pay dividends and over $25,000,000 net 2½ per cent per annum to the company

Heavy Failure

The well known house of D J Magnin Guedin & Co, importers of watches, jewelry and fancy goods, corner Union square and Sixteenth street, failed to-day and David J Magnin, the resident partner made an assignment to Wm A Wheelock, formerly president of the Central national bank, giving preference for $28,000. The present partners are Mrs Eliza Magnin who resides in Geneva, and David J Magnin. It is said that the late Lorenzo Delmonico brother-in-law of Mr Guedin, loaned the firm $100 000 a few years ago and the greater part of this money remains unpaid. The estate of Delmonico comes in as general creditor. The failure is attributed to depreciation in values heavy expenses and dull trade. Liabilities about $120,000, assets, $110 000

Western Union Statement

The quarterly statement of the Western Union shows the net revenue for the quarter ending December 31st to be $1,751,235, deducting the appropriation for dividends surplus January first was $1,055,273. The net profits since the American Union and A & P Co were absorbed have been $707,000 gross revenues $16 868,000, surplus, $836,983 dividend has been declared payable April 15th

Missouri Pacific Elections.

St Louis March 7—The annual meeting of stockholders of the Missouri Pacific Railway to-day elected the following board of directors for the ensuing year Jay Gould, Russel Sage, F. L Ames, Wm Buckley, R S. Hayes, S H H Clark, Sidney Dillon, Thos T. Eckert, Geo J. Deforest, Samuel Sloane A T. Hopkins, H. G. Marque and Geo Gould. The meeting of the Iron Mountain Company which was to be held to-day was postponed until the 14th, when Jay Gould will be here, and the annual reports of both roads be presented.

On the Way to China.

Chicago March 7—The family of Ko Kun Hua professor of Chinese at Harvard, who died of pneumonia four weeks ago, arrived at the Grand Pacific from the east yesterday, and were [illegible] quarters in one of the club r[illegible] ure by the first train [illegible]

[illegible] Drew, who went to China [illegible] now commissioner of Chinese customs, passed through Omaha to-day en route to Shanghai, China, accompanied by his family and the family of the late Chinese professor at Harvard College, Ko Kun Hua, whose remains he has in charge to deliver at Shanghai. Ko Kun Hua died Feb 15 of pneumonia, aged 45 years. He had been at Harvard College two years and a half and his contract would have expired in September next. His place will not be filled as the experiment of teaching Chinese in an American college proved a failure.

Illinois Legislature Convened.

Springfield, March 7.—Gov Cullom to-day issued a proclamation convening the general assembly on the 23d of March to apportion the state into senatorial and congressional districts, and to provide for the election of representatives therein and for other purposes. The governor received a telegram from the secretary of war stating that he had ordered 10,000 rations for flood sufferers in Pulaski county

Printers on a Strike.

St Louis, March 7.—Journeyman printers are out on a general strike for three dollars a day. Various classes of workmen are agitating a strike

Thousands in Distress.

Memphis, March 8—The river continues stationary. Reports of great suffering of the people in the overflowed districts continue. In reply to an inquiry of the secretary of war as to the number of destitute people in his state, Judge Mungrum, commissioner of Arkansas, replied he had information of about 20,000, but the number was daily increasing. Commissioner Hemmingway, of Mississippi, in reply to the same interrogatory, named 18 000 as being in needy condition in Mississippi. By adding to these 5000 destitute in Tennessee, there is an aggregate of 43,000 persons whose condition is such as demands prompt attention at the hands of the government. The change in the weather has increased suffering, and many lives must be lost from exposure. Governor Hawkins, of Tennessee, has appointed H. M. James, at this point, as commissioner for Tennessee to receive and distribute supplies furnished by the government for the relief of inhabitants of this state.

The White River Backed Up 135 Miles.

Memphis March 7—Capt Ed Postall of the steamer Hard Cash which arrived this morning, reports the back water from the Mississippi river extends up White river to Clarendon Arkansas a distance of 135 miles from the mouth. The whole country intervening is under water, which is two feet higher than ever known before. Great loss of stock and damage to farming interests has occurred throughout the White river bottoms. The river here continues stationary

A Town Cut in Two

Memphis, March 8—The levee is still intact at Helena. Three hundred men are guarding it. At Austin, Miss the river cut through the town carrying the principal buildings and the situation is hourly growing worse

Danger for the Cotton Crop.

Thirty counties of Louisiana now under water are the richest cotton lands in the world and if they are not rescued the cotton crop the coming year will be cut down at least a million bales

Telegraph Communication Shut Off.

Memphis, March 8—Telegraph wires connecting Helena, Ark with the outside world are doubtless down, as nothing has been heard from there up to midnight

Explosion at Kansas City

Kansas City, March 8—The rendering tanks at the dessicating works at Armourdale blew up this morning. The building is wrecked. Loss $9,000. Nobody hurt.

Decrease in Pork Packing,

Cincinnati, March 8—Pork packing at Cincinnati the past season shows a heavy decrease in the number of hogs and weight of product

Forster's Speech at Tullamore

New York March 7—[illegible] Tullamore [illegible] ... [illegible] ... said that [illegible] ... [illegible] ... the name of Ireland and [illegible] Great Britain [illegible] ... that the Irish

Here a [illegible] prisoners

Forster continued but there is one want among the Irish people namely the determination to stand against the majority around them or even against the violent minority those who commit outrages are broken down with men and violent reckless [illegible]. Whether you stop them or not it is the duty of government to do so. It is especially my duty and stop them we will. The instigators of outrages have several powers to contend with namely the Irish government though perhaps they think they can defy that; also the imperial government and the people of Great Britain. But they have also a stronger force, the force of God's law which say that the man who tries to injure his neighbor (A voice interrupting, That is the landlord)

Forster continued There may be bad landlords but that does not excuse the burning of houses the torturing of animals the killing of men. (A voice Who did that but the soldiers and the police)

Forster then went on to speak of his experience years ago in Ireland when a young man and his determination then was to get alteration in laws. He spoke of his present joy to see the change accomplished and of his belief that in five years perhaps in less it will be acknowledged to be a great beneficial change in the agricultural industries of Ireland. Forster then referred to his visit to the death bed of Moroney, the memory of which he said would remain throughout his life. I call on you all do what you can to stop these things. Let me say one word about the English people. There is no ill feeling in England toward Ireland. We know that you have been a miserably and badly governed country that the English government of past days has done many cruel and very unjust things to Ireland and has allowed many to be done. We wish to make you prosperous rich and powerful as ourselves but we view these terrible outrages and hardly know how to do so. I will conclude with the words I have often heard, God save Ireland—words which sometimes find letters telling me I must have a bullet through my head or go to a place warmer than we are in now. I say God save Ireland and too but from the man that makes that threat, God save him

A Pre-arranged Plan

London, March 8—A Times St Petersburg special declares Gen Skobeleff's speeches were prearranged between him and Gen Ignatieff. It is said the object of the latter is to embroil matters to such a degree as to create an opportunity for him to offer his services to the czar as minister of foreign affairs in order to straighten them out

WASHINGTON NEWS.

General Grant Said to be in Need of Pecuniary Assistance.

IMMEDIATE CONSTRUCTION OF NEW SHIPS RECOMMENDED

Final Action on the Chinese Bill Delayed Another Day by Platt's Speech

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

Washington March 8—Gen Grant is not the wealthy man he has been represented to be. He is very much in need of [illegible] ... the army. A [illegible] trustworthy reporter [illegible] personal [illegible] the house given him in New York was held [illegible] a fortune in the fund collected for him by [illegible] publisher of the New York [illegible] $250,000 at the [illegible] trustee of the fund with power to invest it, Grant being given the income arising therefrom. The money was invested in Wabash railroad stock and there is no stock in the market that has gone down in such a remarkable degree as this. It has depreciated in value to such an extent that the investment for Grant now represents a comparatively small sum and the income is limited. More than this it is not believed from the condition of the road that the stock will be worth very much for a long time to come. Had the money been given outright to Grant and invested in government bonds it would have represented something more tangible than it does to-day. Possibly [illegible] will be held responsible for the money but considering the fact that he is the man who secured the matter is altogether too delicate a one for Grant to press. None of the investments that Grant made in New York have been successful. He has been tricked as president and director in many concerns but he draws no money so he is being gradually dropped by investors who were anxious a year or two ago to carry him for advantages his name might give them. His son Buck Grant is quite rich and making plenty of money. The general's position however is full of embarrassment. It is from a partial knowledge of Grant's condition that his friends have been so earnestly urging the bill for restoring him to the army. It is now however pretty certain the bill will fail in the house because democrats have already agreed on a policy which if carried out will defeat the measure

Appeals for Assistance

Washington March 7—Appeals for aid in the regions overflowed by the Mississippi river continue to pour in upon the secretary of war. Governor Crittenden of Missouri sends a response to telegrams advising him that additional rations should be sent to each of two points he may name. The secretary has referred the response to Gen McFeely, commissary general of subsistence, directing him to give the necessary instructions to carry out suggestions. A telegram to the secretary of war from Governor Hawkins of Tennessee says he has reliable information that about 8000 persons in the counties of Tennessee bordering on the Mississippi river are in a destitute and suffering condition. Governor Hawkins earnestly asks that a portion of the fund apportioned be applied to the immediate relief of the suffering people of Tennessee. In reply the secretary telegraphed Governor Hawkins asking for information by telegraph of the locality for distribution names of commissioners and as nearly as possible the number to be relieved at each point. Governor Cullom of Illinois telegraphs the county board of Pulaski county estimating the number needing assistance at 4000 and recommends Robert Wilson as commissioner at Mound City. The secretary [illegible] Governor Cullom to [illegible] Robert Wilson [illegible] City and informs him that 45,000 rations [illegible] sent to that point. The secretary [illegible] Generals Manger [illegible] and Heming [illegible] orders at [illegible] and Arkansas

Progress of the Chinese Bill

The Chinese bill was before the senate 2½ hours this afternoon and nearly four fifths of the entire time was consumed by Dawes, of Massachusetts, in making a characteristic speech. His delivery was excessively solemn, measured, slow and monotonous. His arguments were mostly stale or manifestly absurd, and as a natural consequence after the first fifteen minutes very few people remained either in the galleries or on the floor of the senate to listen to him. When however about half past 3 o'clock Edmunds took the floor the senate [illegible] ... attention. His forcible remarks were delivered in the weighty but unusual style of which he is an acknowledged master and carried dismay into the pro Chinese ranks, for he was well remembered as leader of the opposition to the 15 passenger bill and it was quite generally expected that he would exert his formidable influence and great ability against the pending measure. The effect therefore of his announcing his hearty adhesion to the principle underlying this bill and of the brief but unanswerable argument with which he favored reduction of the period of suspension to 10 years, and advocated the bill as an experiment. He nevertheless clearly indicated his conviction that the Chinese have already proved themselves to be a highly injurious element in our body politic

The Pacific coast senators would doubtless have succeeded in pressing the bill to a final vote to-day had it not been for the statement of Platt of Connecticut that he wished to speak on it, but that the condition of his health would render it more agreeable to him to speak to-morrow. A suggestion of this kind coming within the unwritten rule of senatorial courtesy is invariably potent, and it was therefore agreed that the bill should go over until to-morrow, but there is a general though informal understanding that the senate will then finally dispose of it before adjournment

Report of the Naval Committee.

Representative Harris has completed his report on the bill for construction of new war vessels. The report covers about eighty legal cap pages. It begins by reviewing the present utter inefficiency, and says the naval committee felt that the time for wise and energetic action had come. The work of reconstruction must be begun and pushed with vigor, in order that new vessels properly armed may be ready to fill the places of vessels of the present navy as fast as they become unfit for further service. It is recommended that they be sold and the proceeds be used in the construction of new vessels. The bill authorizing the construction of vessels of war for the navy and for other purposes which this report is to accompany has been amended by the committee since published by the addition of the following

Section 9 The secretary of the navy is hereby authorized to cause to be constructed vessels to be used for the defense of the commerce upon the northwest lakes, of not more than 1200 tons displacement the same to be built of steel and armed with guns of approved character for that service said vessels to be constructed so as to be able to pass over the shoals in Lake St Clair and river and to have all the speed possible without too great sacrifice of other necessary qualities at a cost not exceeding $400 000 the same to be constructed out of any fund which may hereafter be made available for such purpose

Dr Boynton's Letter

[illegible] Washington special Dr Boynton who was in attendance upon Gen Garfield during his fatal illness has written a letter to Dr Baxter medical purveyor of the U S army. Boynton says Bliss was never placed in charge of the president's case by any member of the president's family and was continued without any authority from them through all the entire case. Upon the back of Boynton's letter is an endorsement by Mrs Garfield of the truth of the statements therein. Dr Baxter has circulated this letter among senators and members in order to defeat Bliss bill included in the report of the committee charged with auditing expenses attendant upon Garfield's illness. There is such grave impropriety in all this that it can have but little result. Dr Bliss was summoned in the case by Secretary Lincoln, and if the president or any member of his family had at any time desired to make a change it would have been very easy

Committee Matters.

The senate finance committee recommend the passage of Beck's bill to punish unlawful certification of checks by national banks with minor amendments

The senate military committee this morning appointed Senators Harrison Hawley and Hampton a sub committee to confer with the secretary of war in regard to making additional appropriations for the relief of persons rendered destitute by the floods in the southwest. Reports from Arkansas Mississippi and Louisiana are that the supplies already issued are inadequate. The sub committee will confer with Secretary Lincoln immediately with a view of making such provision for food as is necessary

Will Hold no Caucus.

Republicans do not intend to hold a caucus on the new rules of the house. Robeson and Reed say there is no party question involved but simply the rescue of meritorious bills from the mazes of an over crowded calendar. Republican absentees are requested to return and such as are paired are asked to give notice of termination of their pairs. The admission of Dakota as a state is said by some to be made a party question and be one of the bills republicans desire to be enabled to force through

A Mineral Water Quarrel

A sharp fight is likely to occur here between proprietors of domestic mineral waters and owners and agents of Apollinaris water. Attorney General MacVeagh decided that Apollinaris is an artificial water and therefore dutiable but Secretary Folger recently reversed this decision and decided that Apollinaris was entitled to enter this country without payment of customs duty. A resolution is pending in congress directing the secretary of the treasury not to take any steps towards carrying out his decision until there can be an opportunity for investigation of the question as to whether Apollinaris is entitled to be placed on the free list. Able legal talent has been employed on both sides and ex Senator Conkling is said to be counsel for the Apollinaris interests and to have received a cash fee of $6,000

The secretary of war has sent 20 000 more rations to Memphis to aid sufferers by the floods

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate

Washington March 8—[illegible] Ingalls [illegible] Carpenter of Wisconsin [illegible] and Davis of Illinois and George voted [illegible]. The bill was then laid aside

Miller of New York presented [illegible] New York merchants [illegible] to the termination of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty [illegible] than that contemplated in the treaty [illegible]. Action [illegible] taken [illegible]

Consideration of the Chinese bill was resumed and Senator Platt opposed it. Platt continued speaking until after [illegible] o'clock. The vote was then taken on Ingalls amendment [illegible] suspension from 20 years to [illegible] and it was lost by a vote of 21 yeas against [illegible] nays. The affirmative vote on Ingalls amendment [illegible] senators who while preferring the 10 years period will nevertheless vote for a longer period rather than vote against the bill. Several senators who are in favor of passing the bill without amendment were absent temporarily

Hoar has taken the floor to renew his general opposition to the bill

Action on the Chinese Bill

Washington March 8—When the Chinese bill came up in the senate to-day Platt opposed it. He said the object of the bill was to suspend and prohibit absolutely Chinese immigration under the guise of twenty years suspension of the immigration of Chinese laborers. In support of this he quoted declarations in the speech of Miller and from resolutions of California mass meetings commenting on the supposed infidelity with which Chinamen who are here have adhered to contracts which they were parties to a characteristic which he said was a prominent feature of their characters. He illustrated this reference to the alleged fact that no one of the laborers brought here by the six companies had ever sought to avail himself of the protection of our laws as against harsh and oppressive requirements of their country notwithstanding that our laws would have relieved him of them. He (Platt) had been assured by one of the Massachusetts senators that this characteristic had been specially noticeable in the Chinese company in that state. The representations made on behalf of the United States in negotiation of the treaty go to show that China was induced to rely upon our sense of justice and generosity to make our legislation conformably to treaty obligations. He held that imposition of fine and imprisonment upon any vessel master bringing Chinese laborers was a violation of good faith. He thought the United States even in the light of the nineteenth century might well afford to learn from the great pagan philosopher who, six hundred years before the period of the sermon on the Mount uttered the sentiment "do not unto others what you would not have them do unto you." As to the requirement of the treaty that permitted classes shall have all rights here of people of the most favored nations. He said that the custom house registration which the bill applied to them did not apply to any other immigration. The measure was objectionable to him as race legislation and as striking at the natural rights of men to labor. He said he did not claim that Mongolians were the social or political equals of the Anglo-Saxon but he did contend that other conditions being equal he had the same right to come to this country to labor that any other foreigner had. Enlarging upon the right of asylum and contending that the Chinese had not been given a chance to demonstrate their capability for assimilation he replied to the argument in behalf of the bill and remarked that he would not oppose measure properly drawn and in accordance with the spirit of the treaty

A vote was then ordered upon the Ingalls amendment limiting the suspension of the coming of Chinese laborers to 10 years. The amendment was defeated by a tie vote—ayes 21 nays 21. The vote in detail is as follows

Yeas—Aldrich Allison Blair Brown, Cockrell Conger Davis of Illinois, Dawes, Edmunds Frye, Harris, Hoar Ingalls Jackson Lapham McDill, McMillan, Mitchell, Morrill, Saunders, Sewell, Sherman and Teller

Nays—Bayard, Beck Call Cameron of Wisconsin Coke Fair Farley Garland [illegible] Morgan [illegible] Vest and Walker

Pairs were announced between Davis of W Va and Saulsbury Butler [illegible] Kellogg [illegible] Vance [illegible] also [illegible]

Hoar rose and remarked [illegible] that the vote just taken was that it was the purpose of those having charge of the bill to force it through without regard to its effect upon the public faith of the government. He proceeded to refute in detail argument for the bill

Hoar insisted that the passage of the pending bill would be a blow at Christianity and civilization and the prosperity of California. A subsequent declaration by Hoar that the bill violates the spirit of the declaration of independence, the constitution of the United States and moral law called out Edmunds, who forcibly enlarged upon his argument of yesterday showing the right of every nation to determine what people it will admit to its country and that under the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States our government has frequently exercised similar powers

A long colloquy ensued between Edmunds and Hoar in which the latter was decidedly worsted. Edmunds however while asserting the right of the United States to fix any period for the proposed suspension of Chinese immigration said he would vote against the bill if the twenty years period be retained

An amendment was also adopted providing, that the bill shall not take effect until twenty days after its passage. This takes the place of Ingalls amendment. Last Monday Ingalls offered an amendment providing that the bill shall not take effect until sixty days after information of its passage has been communicated to the government of China. Pending action on this amendment a very spirited colloquy occurred between Ingalls and Dawes, and Teller took the floor in reply to Hoar

On motion of Brown an amendment was adopted allowing Chinese to make their signatures by marks with a witness

Pending the vote on the Farley amendments opposing admission of Chinese to citizenship, Hoar moved an adjournment and there being on a division 25 ayes against 22 nays, the presiding officer at 6 40 declared the senate adjourned without an opportunity being afforded for a call of yeas and nays. So the bill went over till to-morrow

THE ILL-FATED JEANNETTE.

Lieutenant Danenhower Writes from Yakutsk of the Perilous Trip—Only 13 of the 33 Explorers Alive

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

Washington March 8—W W Danenhower has received two letters from his son John Danenhower of the Jeannette Arctic exploring expedition. The first one is dated at Bulen [illegible] 1881. There is added a postscript dated Yakutsk Dec 17th. The trip up the river [illegible] to Yakutsk occupied 36 days and was made on sledges with dogs, reindeer and horses. Lieut Danenhower describes the journey as one full of severe hardships. There were stations at intervals on the way constructed of logs. He describes the last one of these 17 miles from Yakutsk [illegible] It was a small log building with [illegible] It was composed of one room in which were about [illegible] people when his party arrived. In the center was the body of a horse [illegible] brought into the room to thaw out. During the night the party stopped at this hut and Jack Cole boatswain while laboring under aberration of mind got up and started out to walk to New York to see his wife. The thermometer was 40 degrees below zero at the [illegible] Danenhower [illegible] to come back into the hut. At Yakutsk, [illegible] Danenhower says [illegible] who [illegible] was taken to the governor who treated him with great kindness and consideration. He had full details [illegible] the party [illegible] attention. They were [illegible] at a small hotel conducted on the American plan. Lieut Danenhower speaks of his stay in Yakutsk as exceedingly pleasant and [illegible] On December 18th the governor sent an officer to Lieut Danenhower to ask him at what time Christmas festivities usually began in America and when informed it was usual to commence Christmas eve he sent his sleigh for the party to come to his residence for supper and spend the evening. In speaking of the terrible voyage of the party Danenhower says they had traveled 500 miles over ice from the ship to the mouth of the Lena. They landed in [illegible] with water and wer [illegible] 100 miles [illegible] further. They were [illegible] further [illegible] before they reached shelter and he says he was up five days and four nights without a [illegible] He mentions that out of 33 comprising the crew and officers of the Jeannette only 13 are known to be living and [illegible] is known to be dead

Supreme Court Decision

San Francisco March 8—To-day the supreme court in reversing the judgment of the lower court in the case of the people vs Martin an action brought under section 3360 of the code to recover the amount of license tax for carrying on business as merchant in the county of Santa Cruz held that this tax was unconstitutionally imposed. The county [illegible] ... no power to impose such taxes for any purpose [illegible] ... not [illegible] the constitution expressly gave its powers by general laws [illegible] corporate authorities of counties, towns or other public or municipal corporations [illegible] ... assess and collect taxes for those purposes

A New Exchange.

The committee appointed by the San Francisco Stock Exchange to consider the question of starting a wheat [illegible] has reported plans to organize a new association under the auspices of the board to be known as the San Francisco Grain Exchange. This organization is to have a membership of 150 its own officers and directors its own caller and be entirely distinct from the old board though under the patronage of the latter. The exchange shall meet daily at 1 30 P M. The report is accompanied by a set of proposed bylaws in which rules are laid down for the transaction of business together with proposed forms of contract for future deliveries. Among other things their laws provide that no fictitious or wash sales shall be made and that 25 cents per cental shall be the margin required on time contracts; that two notices one of five days and one of three, shall be given before the delivery of grain contract and finally that ten tons shall be the lowest amount dealt. The last rule expressly forbids dealings in future calls or any other similar gambling devices. The report will be discussed and probably adopted at the executive session of the board to be held to-day

O'Connor Receives a Banquet.

Last night a reception and banquet was tendered Hon T P O Connor, M. P., at St Mary's college by the faculty of that institution. A large number of prominent citizens were invited, and several Catholic clergymen were present. Quite a number of the alumni of the college were also present to do honor to the occasion. An address of welcome to Mr O Connor was delivered by James F McGauney. Appropriate remarks were made by Mr Bittclin in behalf of the college faculty, to which Mr O Connor responded in fitting terms. At the close of the addresses the guests adjourned to the large hall where a splendid banquet was spread

Murderous Assault

San Rafael March 8—At San Quentin this morning an unprovoked and murderous assault was made by a Chinaman with a hatchet on Mrs Schloser, wife of Henry Schloser manager of N P Cole & Co's furniture business at the prison. Ah Bing, the prisoner, has been working for several months in the family as a servant, and everything so far as known has been pleasant. On being let out of his cell this morning he went to Mr Schloser's house as usual and got breakfast ready. Mrs Schloser took a seat at the table and commenced eating, when the Chinaman stole up behind her and struck her three [illegible] with the hatchet using the blunt part and fracturing her skull. Found Dead.

Merced Cal, March 7—Frank Cover was found dead at his residence in Plainsburg last night a little before midnight. The circumstances as related by persons from there this morning are that Cover and his wife were frequently heard quarreling and fighting until 11 o'clock last evening, and but little attention was paid to it by the neighbors as such scenes have been a frequent occurrence for years until the report of a gun was heard, when people repaired to the house and on entering found [illegible] at the door in the [illegible] a gunshot wound in the region of his stomach [illegible] was found in the barn where she said [illegible] from her husband

UTAH.

Utah Gentiles Fearful

Salt Lake, March 8—Delay in congress over the anti polygamy bills causes grave apprehension among the gentiles of Utah. They believe that a lull in the warfare is occasioned by the liberal use of Mormon gold placed where it would do the most good. Letters from Washington on the subject are all of the most discouraging nature and state that men who were outspoken in their views against polygamy a few weeks ago are now either lukewarm or openly advocating the policy of seating Cannon and letting polygamists alone. No gentile in Salt Lake has much hope for the future. Mormon influences are too strong for any bill to pass with its teeth; [illegible] utterly disemboweled. The Mormons are now boasting of their success [illegible] and that Cannon will be seated and that there will be no anti Mormon legislation

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1882.

THE SHIPPING PORT OF THE FUTURE.

We print a letter this morning setting forth the danger to which we directed attention last week—the danger of losing our shipping. That it is imminent and serious, any person who will consider the facts cannot doubt. Unless the Columbia bar is improved and unless the river channels from Baker's bay to Portland are deepened, the ships which carry our grain to market will load on Puget Sound. Already one ship has loaded there, and another asks for charter; and within the past month six others, originally destined for the Columbia river, have been directed to Puget Sound instead. When connection with Tacoma by rail is made, as it will be this fall by the completion of the Portland-Kalama line, it will be a small matter to run cars already loaded on to deep water, and a very slight difference in charter rates favorable to Tacoma will make that place the point of shipment. Just as certain as fate, Tacoma or Seattle will become the shipping point of the northwest if the Columbia bar is not improved and the river channels not deepened. This does not mean that Portland will be deserted, or that a rival will spring up on the Sound, but it means sacrifice of many thousands of dollars worth of business each year in the equipment of ships, and the payment of the transportation charge across to Tacoma. Portland's merchants would still export our wheat, and the profit of the business would remain here, but we should lose much.

There is but one means of averting this danger. Experience here and elsewhere has proved that government help cannot be depended upon to do it. Experience elsewhere has shown how those who help themselves succeed. There is a great lesson in the history of commerce on the Clyde. There is another in the report of what Adelaide, Australia, has done. And there is impulse and encouragement in the extraordinary success of these extraordinary ventures. A million dollars, the amount suggested by our correspondent, is a great deal of money, but it will be the making of tens of millions. Portland ought to open the river even at this great cost.

THE NEW TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

The Mutual Union telegraph company, which is rapidly rising to rivalry with the Western Union, is about to extend the lines to the Pacific coast. Its general manager, James Gamble, who was long superintendent of the Pacific division of the W. U. Co., arrived in San Francisco several days ago and upon being interviewed said: "Our list of offices already is over six hundred, and before this year ends we expect to reach near a thousand. The Mutual Union lines are built of the best material and in the most substantial manner, and we employ only the very best operators. The lines have been built for cash and as an investment, and not for the purpose of selling them out to Jay Gould or any one else. The telegraph business of the country is enormous and constantly increasing, therefore we believe there is enough business for two lines, and as long as the public have competition they can be very sure of good service, and we have the best assurance that they appreciate this fact from the liberal patronage we have so far received. I have come to the coast for the purpose of selecting a route for an extension of wires across the continent, and to see how such a proposition will be received by the telegraphing public, and what interest they will take in the matter. My plan is to build a grand trunk line of three number six wires between San Francisco, Cal., and New York. This line is to be of the most substantial that can be built, the poles to be of California redwood and Canada cedar, all of large size. It will connect with all intermediate points, and it is expected that messages will be sent direct from San Francisco to New York, as well as from all intermediate points. The Transcontinental line will make connection with the Mutual Union system at Kansas City, Mo. The proposed new line will be called the Transcontinental and will be worked in connection with the Mutual Union system, under a very liberal arrangement with that company, which will make the Transcontinental the best paying telegraph property on the American continent. As soon as my plans are all completed the company will be organized under the laws of the state of New York and a circular issued setting forth in detail what it is proposed to do. We will do business, to which Western Union devotes a capital of $80,000,000, with a capital of about one-eighth of that amount." Mr. Gamble further said that the lines of the company would in time be extended to Oregon and Washington territory.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT WANTED.

The Wisconsin senate, supposed, of course, to be the more conservative legislative body in the state, recently passed a bill to restore capital punishment. It would not be anything remarkable, perhaps, had the case been reversed and a bill had been passed for the abolition of capital punishment. Senates pass a great many bills, good, bad and indifferent, partly because they like to try experiments themselves, and partly because of pressure from outside agitators who like to see experiments tried. But when such a body deliberately votes to restore the death penalty after it had been in disuse for several years, there must be some significance to it. Men do not declare in cold blood that the law should, under certain conditions, put to death their fellowmen without they are under a strong conviction that the interests of society demand such heroic treatment. That is the case in the present instance. Capital punishment has not been legal in Wisconsin for some years; but it has been exercised, more or less, not by the sheriffs, but by the mobs. We do not know whether there have been more murders, because of the suspension of the death penalty, or not—probably that is a question which the authorities themselves would be puzzled to answer correctly—but there has certainly been a more disordered state of society without any apparent prospect of improvement. The death penalty may not be a sufficient preventive of murders that are the result of mad passion, but we do believe it acts as a deterrent where the crime of murder is calculated upon in advance and all the chances are carefully weighed. The experience of Wisconsin is not exceptional. Mob rule and lynch law have flourished much more vigorously in Iowa since capital punishment was abolished than ever before, and the question of restoring the penalty has had many advocates both in the legislature of that state and out of it. Experience is the best teacher, and it is the duty of every state to consult her counsels before making a move in the direction of an apparent philanthropy that may rest upon a very false basis.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, says that if his back-bone is more than gristle, Chicago gamblers will frequent holes and corners during the rest of his administration.

Mr. Dorsey's indictment and his medal arrived about the same time.

Some people believe that owners of railroad stock and bonds are a "privileged class," exempt from the misfortunes of ordinary mortals, and a "bloated aristocracy" whose main business is to cut off coupons and spend the proceeds. For the benefit of such deluded persons we copy a few statistics from the Chicago Railway Age, which show the number of railroad lines that have been sold under foreclosure of mortgage in the United States during the last six years:

Year.	No. Roads.	Mileage.	Capital.
1876	30	3,846	$217,848,000
1877	54	3,875	198,984,000
1878	48	3,902	311,630,000
1879	65	4,909	243,288,000
1880	31	3,775	258,882,000
1881	29	2,617	127,923,000
Total	257	22,921	$1,360,556,000

A new and interesting point was decided recently in the United States district court at Chicago before Judge Blodgett. During a race at the Chicago driving park last June the jockey who was riding the mare Belle of Nelson either by negligence or design rode the mare against the thoroughbred stallion Wolverton, the result being that the horse was thrown and killed. Suit was brought for the value of the horse, which was put at $10,000, and after a trial of two days the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $4500. The case is of interest to horsemen, inasmuch as this is probably the first occasion in which judicial instructions have been given to a jury as to what constitutes foul riding on a race course.

Col. Rufus Ingalls' nomination as quartermaster general has not been received by the senate as favorably as was that of Gen. Rucker. The record of Ingalls is by no means a spotless one, and even the fact that he was strongly urged for the position by Gen. Grant had little effect upon the senate committee having the nomination in charge, an adverse report upon it having been made.

DIPHTHERIA!

REMEMBER THIS—THAT IT IS POSITIVELY worse than murder to allow any case to prove fatal without trying McCLELLAN'S DIPHTHERIA and FEVER REMEDIES. They will positively cure, even after all else has failed. No preparations on earth can equal these remedies for Throat or Lung Troubles or Fevers of all kinds.

The Diphtheria Remedy alone is a sure preventive, and certain to stop its spread. It acts like magic in Croup and Whooping Cough. It will cure any Sore Throat. "They are not cure-alls." Any dealer can get them for you at HODGE, DAVIS & CO'S Wholesale Drug House, Portland, Oregon.

SPRING CARD TO THE LADIES.

The Spring Trade being close at hand, we take this method of thanking the many ladies who favored us with their custom in the past, and will say to them and those that may favor us with their patronage in the future, that we will spare no pains nor expense to place within their reach a Dressmaking Establishment where the BEST TALENT that can be found will be combined. Our expenses are small, hence we pay highest wages to competent hands. We have secured the services of a Cutter of well known experience and ability, Miss KATE O'CONNOR, who will be pleased to wait on her many friends.

FAIR DEALING, FAIR PRICES and ONLY ONE PRICE, which have contributed so largely in building up our business to the high standard it has now reached will be rigidly adhered to. Employing constantly from fifteen to twenty hands, a First-Class Cutter and Fitter, and one experienced assistant, we can safely say that all orders entrusted to us will secure prompt and due attention.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 9—Midnight.—Indications for Pacific coast region, partly cloudy; weather rain in Oregon and Washington territory.

CITY.

AN IMPORTANT IMPORTATION.—While horsemen are improving the breed of our horses by infusions of the best racing and "general service" blood, breeders of other kinds of stock are not lacking in enterprise. In the importation of fine sheep, particularly, is this enterprise developing itself. Mr. James Withycombe, V. S., of this city, by a steamer arriving last week, received one of the finest bred ewes in America, which will be added to his already fine flock in Washington county. This ewe Mr. Withycombe purchased from Mr. Abner Strawn, Ottawa, Ills. She was bred by Mr. Henry Ackers, Oxfordshire, England. Mr. Strawn imported her in 1880 when a lamb, and she was shown by him at the following fairs: Ohio state fair, Columbus, Northern Ohio state fair, Cleveland, International Exhibition of sheep' wool and wool products at Philadelphia, Illinois state fair, Springfield and St. Louis expositions. She was in the first prize pen at all the above mentioned fairs. This ewe is with lamb by a buck bred by Mr. Robert Jacobs, Oxfordshire, England, and has won first prizes at the leading shows of England and Canada. Mr. Withycombe's Cotswolds have taken first prize at all the Washington county fairs for several years past, and it is evident from his last enterprise, that he proposes to "keep up with the procession."

TRIAL TRIP.—The handsome steamer, "Montesano," Capt. Whitcomb, which has been lying at Willamet iron works receiving her machinery, made her trial trip yesterday afternoon. She steamed at the rate of 12 miles an hour, turning 26 revolutions of her wheel per minute on 75 lbs. of steam. She will work 30 revolutions on 80 lbs. of steam and is good for 14 miles an hour. Her dimensions are: Length, 80 feet; width, 17 feet; depth, 4½ feet; and her capacity, 87 tons. The steamer is owned by the Shoalwater Bay Transportation Company, L. A. Loomis, president, which also operates the new steamer James A. Garfield, on Gray's harbor. The Montesano will run on Chehalis river in connection with the Garfield, and will do its share toward developing the splendid agricultural region lying west and southwest of Olympia, which has lain nearly idle for want of transportation facilities. She will go to Astoria to-morrow, there receive finishing touches, and leave for Gray's harbor about the 25th inst.

RECKLESS DISPLAY OF MONEY.—Franz Gritzmacher, a German farmer, who had been living near Champoeg, sold his property in that section, which realized about $10,000, and upon arriving here a few days since deposited it in Ladd & Tilton's bank. The following day he got slightly drunk, drew his money from the bank, and went into many dives in town, making a display of it. It cannot be said what would have become of him had Chief of Police Lappeus not heard of his foolishness, and, after finding him, told him what chances he was running, and that he would have to stop it. When seen by the chief he was strolling along First street with a thousand dollar bill in his hand, inquiring of passers-by where he could get it changed. The warning he got seemed to have sobered him, as he was not seen again that day, and left the next morning on the river boat.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING.—Mr. J. S. Oakford, collector of customs at Fort Wrangel, arrived in the city yesterday evening in charge of W. M. J. Stephens and O. C. Price, who are alleged to have carried on a smuggling trade in Alaska. It had been known for some time that the illicit business was going on, and Mr. Oakford, after much hard work, discovered the guilty parties. Price and Stephens were both captured in Fort Wrangel. Stephens is a prominent merchant in that place, and is said to have been furnishing money to Price to carry on this business. Sixteen cases and eleven barrels of whisky were found buried a few miles from Fort Wrangel. A third party is implicated in the matter, but has not yet been apprehended. Stephens and Price were lodged in the city jail, but the former was released a few minutes afterwards, having furnished bonds.

"THE COMING WOMAN."—The ladies' committee of the Open Temperance Association, have engaged Col. J. T. Long, of Kentucky, grand lecturer of the Good Templars, who has been filling a series of engagements in this state with great power and acceptance, to lecture on next Saturday evening. His subject, by special request, will be "The Coming Woman." This will be the last opportunity to hear Col. Long, as he will depart next week for San Francisco and the east. He will, of course, be greeted by a crowded house.

UNITY LODGE ENTERTAINMENT.—The anniversary exercises at Turn Verein hall this evening promise to be a pleasant affair. The entertainment will consist of vocal and instrumental music, readings and recitations, and short addresses by the following well known talent: Miss Flora Abrams, Mrs. F. W. Strehlan, Miss Cook, Mr. Edgar E. Coursen, H. D. McGuire, Hon. J. F. Caples, Unity Glee Club, Bray and Varney's orchestra. The entertainment will commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

HARRY MACE FINED.—Harry Mace was yesterday, arraigned in the police court on a charge of assault and battery made by Stephen Randall. The evidence showed that Mace had beaten Randall for testifying against Charley Turk in a trial of the same nature in Justice Davis' court. Mace was fined $40, which was not paid. He will languish in the county jail 20 days for his forcible sympathy with Turk.

FIRE AT INDEPENDENCE.—A telegram to THE OREGONIAN from Independence says: Fire broke out Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock in the brick business building owned by M. Hirschberg and occupied by E. Poppleton. Damage to the building was about $1000 and to the stock from $12,000 to $15,000. The building was insured for $2000 and the stock for $14,000. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

MRS. WILLIAMS' LECTURES.—Subscriptions to the course of lectures by Mrs. Williams announced in yesterday's OREGONIAN may be made at J. K. Gill & Co's, where the list can be seen. No other public speaker who ever visited Portland won such high reputation as this gifted woman, and her lectures last summer on various eminent authors stamp her as a person of remarkable intellect.

ARRESTED AND IMPRISONED.—Mrs. Ida M. Fisher was arrested yesterday afternoon with John Knox, both accused of adultery by James Fisher, the husband of the former. They were lodged in the county jail and their bonds fixed at $1000 each. An examination of the case will take place Saturday in Justice Davis' court.

HEAVY FREIGHT.—On account of the unusually large amount of freight for Portland awaiting shipment in San Francisco, the O. R. & N. Co. will dispatch the City of Chester from the latter point next Saturday, the 11th inst., with a cargo of general merchandise. The State, which sails to-morrow, will have a full cargo.

TOM WILLIAMS RELEASED.—Tom Williams, who was arrested by Chief of Police Lappeus as being implicated in the murder of J. N. Brown, was yesterday released by order of the court. Friends of Williams promised that in case they wanted him as a witness, they would be responsible for his appearance.

FOREIGN FOWLS AND FLOWERS.—Hon. O. N. Denny, consul at Shanghai, sent several specimens of pheasants and ducks to Portland by the bark Isle of Bute, which arrived in port a few days since; also, a variety of flowers common in that country. They were sent to several friends here.

SERVICES AT CALVARY.—Rev. F. P. Berry, of Salem will conduct services at Calvary Presbyterian church this evening, commencing at 7:30. After the sermon persons will be received into the church. Those intending to join who cannot be present should send in their letters.

CITY RIFLES BALL.—Owing to the death of one of the members, the ball to be given last evening by the City Rifles has been postponed by order of the captain, Henry Gurr, to some future time, the date of which will be announced hereafter.

AN ACCESSORY'S STATEMENT.

PETE SULLIVAN'S STORY OF THE MURDER OF J. N. BROWN.

It Corroborates the Testimony of Dolly Adams and Mollie Flippin, but makes Adams the Principal in the Crime.

Shortly after the arrest of Pete Sullivan, who is charged along with Carrie Bradley and the rest of the crowd with the murder of John Nelson Brown on the 25th of October last, he made a voluntary statement in writing of the crime, and signed it in the presence of Captain Lees, of the San Francisco detective force. This he gave to Captain Lees, who forwarded it to Prosecuting Attorney Caples. Yesterday it was made public, and is given below in full, with the exception of one clause, which, if published, might defeat justice.

Some time last fall I came down from the Dalles, Oregon, and visited Carrie Bradley's house. I took one of the girls, Mollie Flippen, out buggy riding, and paid attention to a Jewish girl who was stopping there. I went out boat riding with Carrie Bradley and several of her girls one day, and she remarked: "Pete, you look awful thin, you must be sick." She told me to come to her house as there was a vacant room and plenty to eat for me there and I could have medical attendance if necessary. I felt ashamed at first, but two or three days after I went to her house and was treated for my complaint by young Dr Giltner. I came home to Bradley's one evening, and Carrie told me that Dolly Adams, one of her girls, had been arrested for bilking a man out of some money. She said Adams was to be tried next day. I went up and heard the trial. The complainant's name was James Nelson Brown, and he was a resident of Washington territory. Dolly Adams told me that she would like to see him, and try and compromise the matter with him. She asked me if I knew him and where he lived. I told her he stopped at the National Hotel. Carrie Bradley and Adams got a carriage that night and drove to the National Hotel. They inquired for Brown but he was not in. The next night I met Brown on the corner of First and Morrison streets. I knew him because I had seen him before at the Elite theater one night I was taking checks there. He treated me at the theater and also a couple of sailors who were present. He said he had been a sailor at one time himself. He seemed to be full of fun when he was in company. The night he died I met him on First and Morrison streets and invited him into Chauncy Dale's saloon, around the corner from where we were standing, and we had a drink and played a game or two of cards. I sent a young man named "Ace" to Carrie Bradley's to tell her that Brown was at Dale's saloon. If they wanted to see him to come down. Carrie and Dolly came down in Baker's hack to Dale's and when they came in went up to the bar and had a drink. Brown said to me

"THERE IS THE GIRL I HAD ARRESTED,"

Pointing to Dolly Adams. Carrie turned around and said "Gentlemen, have a drink," and said to Brown, "Oh, my, is this you?" Brown said he was sorry, and Carrie said "That's all right. But what did you want to have me arrested for?" I sung a couple of songs at which Brown seemed pleased. Dolly said "Let us go home. We can sing all we want and nobody can disturb us." We then had another drink. Brown didn't care to come at first, but Dolly caught hold of him and said, "I am going with you tonight." Carrie said, "Let us get into the hack." Brown finally consented to go and we all got into the hack. There was Carrie, Dolly, Brown, "Ace" and myself. We rode to Carrie Bradley's house. This was Thursday evening, Oct. 27, 1881. When we entered the house Mollie Flippen, Mollie Moss, Fay Cushing and a male piano player were there. I don't know the name of the musician. We had a couple of drinks. I sang a song or two. Some of the girls served the drinks, I don't know which. Brown was quite intoxicated by this time. I missed "Ace" out of the party and was told he had gone to the drugstore for something. Brown sat on the sofa, his forehead covered with perspiration, and the girls were wiping it off with their handkerchiefs. He seemed half asleep and half awake. Dolly Adams says, "Brown, come up stairs and go to bed." We helped them up stairs. They put him in the bed I used to sleep in. It must have been 10 or 11 o'clock at the time. "Ace" and myself then started down town. I got into some trouble at a faro game. I remained out until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. When I came home they were just going to bed. I opened my door and Brown was in there. He was snoring very loud. There was no light in the room. Dolly came out of her apartment and invited me in to have some beer. I went in and fell asleep in her room. Mollie Moss and Fay Cushing slept in the opposite room from Brown. Dolly got up in the morning and awakened me by knocking at Carrie's door. Bradley got up and came up stairs. Dolly came into the room where I was and shouted, "Pete! Pete! my God! get up; the man is dead!" I arose and went to the room occupied by Brown. I looked at him and saw he was purple in the face. I nearly fainted. I said, "Oh, my God, what have I got into now!" I said I would go over and report to the coroner. Bradley said,

"YES, THAT IS THE BEST THING TO DO."

Dolly Adams fell fainting on the floor. * * * I found a silk handkerchief in the bed with Brown. Dolly said, "Perhaps it belongs to the fellow who went for the chloroform last night," meaning "Ace." Carrie invited us down stairs to have a drink. Dolly said to me, "You are all as guilty as I am, now." I said I could not understand how that was and she said the blame would lay on me as he was found dead in my bed. I was requested to ask Tommy Williams to come up to the house. Carrie locked up the room that Brown's body lay in. I went down and told Thomas Williams to come up to the house. Dolly Adams wanted to see him. He came up. After he had been there about half an hour Carrie called him into her room and shut the door. He came out in about ten minutes and says, "Its pretty tough." I said "yes, it is." He asked if any of the other girls knew about it, and I told him they were not up yet. He said he would think of some plan by noon and come up. When the girls got up Bradley told them they had better take a ride to the White House and they did. She then sent her two Chinamen away, telling them it was a Chinese holiday and they need not cook any supper. Tommy Williams came up and said if it was night we could put the body in a hack or wagon and take it away. The women, Bradley and Adams said: "We can't keep him in the house." They said his friends would be inquiring for him, and the house was the place they would be most apt to seek him. Some one said: "Can't he be put under the house?" I said: "I don't know." Tom Williams pulled up a plank or two and said he could be put under the house. Tommy had good clothes on and could not get them soiled. Dolly told me to go under and she would buy me a new suit. I went beneath the house and commenced to root in the mud. Tommy Williams and myself then went up stairs and brought the corpse down. I was pretty full of liquor and they were afraid I would not get the hole deep enough. They wanted it six or seven feet deep. I had a little fire shovel with which I dug the hole. While I was excavating they were busy burning his clothes. Brown had only about sixty or seventy-five cents in his pocket at the time. It would have taken me a week to make a hole six or seven feet deep with a fire shovel.

I DUG THE HOLE TWO FEET DEEP

And Tom and I "packed" the body down stairs and put it in the hole, where I covered it over. They were not satisfied with the hole. Dolly said that some of Brown's friends had been asking for him the evening after his death. The women were not satisfied with the disposal of the body. They wanted to have it removed and either buried or thrown into the river. I told them I would not bother with it any more. I didn't know anyone that would take it away. Charley Hamilton was not stopping at the house then nor had he been there for three or four nights previous. Carrie sent me down to the faro game after him on Saturday night. He came to the house and had a private conversation with her in her room. He then came out and bid all the girls good bye. He spoke to me and said, "Now don't you ever let this out." He gave me a twenty-dollar gold piece to have it changed. I went up in the faro game, got it changed and gave the silver to him. We went into the Elite saloon and had a drink. He told me to borrow Tommy Williams' pistol, which I did. He then went and bought some wine. Hamilton said he wanted to see Jack Mahone. He saw him and he and Hamilton started off to find a good place to secrete the corpse. Mahone came up to Bradley's between 11 and 12 o'clock. Carrie sent all the girls off on pretense of looking for Hamilton. She said that he was at the White House and had another woman with him; that Tommy Williams was there also. By this device she got the girls into a hack and they all went off to the White House. I went under the house again in the dark and began to uncover the corpse. I worked over half an hour when Hamilton came. I was very much intoxicated or I could never have stood it. Hamilton got mad at me for being so long under the house. They got a rope or clothes line and tied to the feet of the corpse. They all pulled upon it and finally got the body out. He was laid on a quilt and put into a big zinc trunk, and "packed" out. When we got on the street I let my end of the trunk fall. The horses in the carriage got frightened and ran across the street. Jack Mahone caught the horses and brought them back. We finally managed to get the trunk up on the platform of the carriage. Mahone drove down in the direction of Scappoose. The hack stopped on the road and Hamilton said to me,

"COME OUT, I WANT TO USE YOU."

He put a couple of heavy stones in the vehicle. We drove on to a place that looked like a lumber yard or wharf, and he told me to get out. Mahone let the trunk down and drove off a couple of blocks and waited for us. Hamilton and I pulled the corpse out in the quilt. We both fell down and got our clothes soiled. He threatened to throw me overboard because I would not help to bind the corpse. He said he

WAS AFRAID OF ME,

That I would give the "business" away while I was drunk. He advised me to get out of the town and leave on some ship. About a week afterwards Carrie gave me $25 to get out of town. I left Portland and went down with Geo. Edwards on the steamer Columbia as James McGrath. I stopped at the Capitol house on Sacramento street, San Francisco, for three days. I then left for Woodland and stopped at the Pacific house. I saw my name in the San Francisco Chronicle, and I told Sheriff Rhum about the matter and admitted that I knew the whole affair. He can speak for himself. I wrote two or three letters to Portland. I wrote twice to Tom Williams. He answered one and told me "things looked awful rocky." He said I had better "dig out." He told me Charles Vankeven (Hamilton?) had skipped from the country. I wrote a letter to Bradley, but received no answer. I telegraphed to Portland as soon as I saw the thing had been discovered. I told the authorities if they wanted me to send for me.

(Signed). PETER J. SULLIVAN,
San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18, 1882.

Attest: I. W. LEES,
Captain of Detectives,
San Francisco, Cal.

It will be seen that the above statement tallies exactly with the testimony of Dolly Adams as far as relates to the circumstances prior and subsequent to the murder. Sullivan, however, makes Adams the principal in the murder. Adams' testimony was made public on Saturday, Feb. 11th, and an epitome of it appeared in the San Francisco papers of the 18th. Sullivan's statement is dated six days later. He could not have worked it out in detail from the meager dispatch, and he did not get to see a Portland paper. What induced him to make the statement is not known.

"Ace" referred to is Asa Nisonger, a young man well known here among the fire boys.

CONCERNING RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

A special meeting of the city council was called last night, Mayor Thompson presiding and councilmen Chittenden, Gordon, Hewett, Holman, Honeyman, Keller, Kellogg and Raleigh present.

Mayor Thompson explained that the notice published calling the meeting did not give sufficient time, hence was not legal, and no regular business could be transacted. The proceedings were therefore informal. Mayor Thompson stated the object of the meeting was to consider the subject of ordering a dredge. He submitted offers from the Oregon Manufacturing Co. and from Morris & Cummings Co. The former agreed to furnish the machinery aboard cars within 120 days from the day ordered, and the latter in from 60 to 90 days. The dredges of both companies are highly recommended by the government engineers at Washington and by the municipal officers of Philadelphia and other eastern cities, who have used them extensively. After remarks from the members showing lively interest in the proposed river improvement, Messrs. Hewett, Holman and Honeyman were appointed a committee to examine into the subject and report at the next regular meeting.

BRIEF MENTION.

The board of fire delegates will hold their regular meeting this evening at 7:30.

Mr. S. G. Allen who has been ill for several weeks, went to San Francisco by the last steamer.

Mr. Geo. [illegible] Meacham has resigned his position in the postoffice to accept a lucrative position in California. Mr. John F. Kelly, route agent, has been promoted to fill the vacancy. Mr. Meacham has been very faithful and diligent in the discharge of his duties for several years at the postoffice, and in his removal Portland loses one of her best young men.

LANE COUNTY NEWS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

EUGENE CITY, Mar. 6.

The storm has subsided and we have fine weather again.

The past winter, although very wet, has not been very severe on stock, as there is plenty of feed on all sides in the county.

The recent high water has done no damage to anything as far as I have heard. The breakwater above the bridge did not sustain any damage to speak of—nothing more than a few loads of stone and brush will repair.

W. H. Abrams & Bro. of this place have started a new industry—making cider. Mr. Abrams has erected powerful machinery, operated by steam, and many thousands of bushels of apples will be bought and worked into cider the coming season.

The coming city election will after all be of much interest, as several persons intend running for the office of city marshal. Mr. Orin Moore, the present city marshal, has given satisfaction and has saved the city many hundreds of dollars by an economical use of the city funds in street improvements and sidewalk building.

The Presbyterians of this city have decided upon building a new church. The contract has been awarded to W. H. Abrams & Bros. at the price of [illegible]. This sum of money has been the saving of many years' contributions to this fund. The church has been for several years past in charge of the Rev. Dr. Geary, and has a large and influential membership.

S. B. Eakin, Jr., and wife, after several months' sojourn in the eastern states, have returned to their home in this city. Mr. Eakin had the misfortune while in the east to be thrown from a buggy and sustained a severe fracture in one of his arms. Mr. Eakin thinks, after much careful observation, that Oregon is far ahead of any of the eastern states to reside in, and thinks that in a few years Oregon will be far in advance of other states in methods of agriculture.

PORTLAND OR TACOMA, WHICH IS TO BE THE GREAT SHIPPING PORT OF THE FUTURE?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The Central Pacific railroad directors when visiting Seattle and Portland in 1875, with the view of then constructing a trans-continental road, stated it was quite unnecessary to make their terminus at Puget Sound, so long as they could do so at Portland, but at the same time they most positively stated that if they came to this city with their railroad the first thing they would do would be to spend one million to two and a quarter millions of dollars in improving the Willamette and Columbia rivers from Portland to the sea. When asked, why not let congress do this; they answered, this country would never see congress spend so much money on such improvements, and if Portland had to wait till congress made her a large city by public river appropriations, another and greater city than Portland, would be planted elsewhere on this North Pacific coast. Seven years have passed and what have we received from congress? Another seven, aye, fourteen years will roll away, and we will be then as we are now, "waiting for dead men's shoes, and hoping against hope," discouraging at the same time all ship owners from revisiting our ports, until tired waiting for our action, the combined ship-owners and underwriters of Great Britain will take united steps themselves against vessels coming to Portland by putting on extraordinary rates of insurance, which will be a greater tax per bushel of wheat than the cost of transporting that wheat, directly on the cars from Portland to Seattle or Tacoma. Portland's taxpayers and real estate owners, ought never to desire a railroad from here to Kalama. Once that 40 miles railway connection is made, it will be an instrument ready for our own city's destruction as a shipping port, unless we previously improve our rivers and render transportation via Kalama to Tacoma unnecessary.

What then is to be done since congress has repeatedly failed to come to our relief with suitable appropriations? The Lord helps those who help themselves. Let us do as the city of Glasgow did, which is now the second or third shipping port in Great Britain. Forty years ago persons could walk through the river Clyde, from the north to the south sides, where the Great Eastern steamship could safely lay today. Glasgow, like Portland, got tired waiting on legislative appropriations which never arrived, applied to parliament for authority as a city to borrow some forty or fifty millions of dollars to improve her rivers, upon the revenues and security of her future commerce—spent this money within twenty years, and has since repaid nearly all from revenues or a tax upon ships visiting the port, and partly upon and from city property. This is the only practicable course open to the city of Portland, and must be done without longer delay. She has now a taxable property of $15,000,000. Let the city apply to the next Oregon legislature for authority to borrow $1,000,000 for river improvements on it, at 6 per cent., payable 20 years after date. That would be an interest indebtedness yearly of $60,000—equal to a 4 mill tax yearly upon the present assessed value of property—a levy which not one property owner in this city, I am sure, would ever oppose. Ten years hence commence to redeem this debt by a small tax upon foreign vessels then loading at Portland, and it would be wiped off within twenty years. We will then have this full million dollars ready to spend within a year upon our rivers and Columbia bar, with which permanent improvements will be made, and our city rendered safe for all vessels drawing 24 feet of water. Take the small annual appropriations which congress may make hereafter and apply them in keeping open the works permanently done with the one million dollars to be borrowed by the city; appoint, as the city of Glasgow did, a body of five trustees, chosen every three years—two from the town council, one from the ship owners, one from the board of trade, and one by the governor of the state—to see this money properly expended for the purposes intended—call them the "river improvement trustees;" investing them with full powers from the legislature in that capacity, and keeping them in office as a body for 20 years.

Unless this or a similar course is adopted at the next session of the legislature (for I have no faith in anything congress may do) Portland will certainly in the near future lose its present position as the only shipping port for the commerce of Oregon and eastern Washington. Your obedient servant,

DECISION IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. District Court—District of Oregon.

SATURDAY, March 4, 1882.

The City of Salem. Charles Nelson et al., libellants. No. 1186.

(1) SUFFICIENCY OF AN ANSWER. Semble, that an allegation in an answer that the respondent is "ignorant" of a matter alleged in the libel is sufficient.

(2) LIEN OF MATERIAL-MEN. The libel alleged that S. contracted with R., the owner of a steamboat, to repair her in her home port, and employed the libellants to work at said repairs as ship carpenters. Held, that upon the facts stated and under the lien law of Oregon (Ses. L. 1876, p. 9), which gives a lien upon a boat for the value of labor done thereon at the request of a contractor with the owner, the libellants had a lien for their wages which might be enforced in the admiralty in a suit in rem, irrespective of the state of the accounts between S. and R., or the failure of S. to fully perform his contract.

(3) LIEN—NATURE AND WAIVER OF. The lien of the material-man under the Oregon act does not depend upon any expressed intention or conscious purpose on his part to claim it, but it is an incident which the law attaches to the performance of the labor or the delivery of the materials under the circumstances stated, and can only be waived or discharged by an agreement or understanding with him to that effect.

DEADY, J.

This suit is brought to enforce a lien in favor of the libellants against the steamboat City of Salem, a vessel engaged in the navigation of the waters of this state and owned, enrolled and licensed at this port.

The libel alleges that during the months of November and December, 1881, and January, 1882, said vessel was in the lawful possession of J. F. Steffen, for the purpose of being repaired; that during those months the libellants, Charles Nelson, Peter Johnson and Jonas Carlson, at the request of said Steffen, worked upon said boat as ship carpenters "at the agreed rate of wages" of $4 per day—Nelson for 48 days, Johnson 22 days and Carlson 29 days; that there is due said libellants on account of said labor as follows—to Nelson $192, to Johnson $88 and to Carlson $116, no part of which has been paid and for which they each claim a lien upon said boat under the laws of Oregon and under the general admiralty law.

The respondent, William Reid, answering the libel, says in article I, that the boat belongs to respondent, and was only in possession of Steffen to be repaired upon a contract between them, but that said Steffen was not the agent of said owner "for the purpose of procuring any work or labor" on said boat, nor for any "purpose save that of executing the work he had contracted to do." In article II, the respondent says that he is "ignorant" of the employment of the libellants upon the boat and their claim to a lien thereon for their labor. The third article states, in effect, that Steffen abandoned his contract, and the respondent was compelled to finish said repairs, and that there is now due said Steffen thereon the sum of $927 50, which sum the respondent is willing to pay to the creditors of the latter entitled thereto, but is prevented from so doing by the process of the state circuit court issued at the suit of Steffen's creditors, and asks that the respondent be discharged without costs. The libellants except to the 2d article of the answer as insufficient, and to the 3d article and so much of the 1st as states that Steffen was not the agent of the respondent to employ the libellants, for impertinence.

The exception for insufficiency is disallowed. When a respondent has no knowledge concerning the matter contained in any article of a libel, according to the precedents, it seems that it is sufficient to say that he is "ignorant" thereof—though I think, it would be well to require him also to state what his belief about the matter is, as in answer in chancery. Ben. Ad. § 473.

The contract of a materialman is a maritime one and may be enforced in admiralty. Ben. Ad. §§ 267-8; The St. Lawrence, 1 Black, 522; The Eliza Ladd, 3 Saw. 519. All persons who are employed to repair a vessel or do work upon her are material-men within this rule. 1 Par. S. & A., 141; Ben. Ad. § 267-8. By the general maritime law material-men have a lien upon the vessel for the services or supplies furnished by them; but by the admiralty law of the United States as expounded by its courts material-men have no lien for services or supplies furnished a vessel in her home port unless given by the local law; but when so given such lien may be enforced in the admiralty. De Lovio v. Boit, 2 Mas., 414; The Planter, 7 Pet., 324. The Harrison, 1 Saw., 353; The Gen. Smith, 4 Whea., 438; The Lotawana, 21 Wall., 579; The Canada, 7 Fed. Rep. 732. The only other question arising upon these exceptions is, have the libellants a lien upon the vessel for their services by the local law—the law of Oregon?

By the act of October 19, 1876 (Ses. L. p. 8), section 17 of the act of December 22, 1853 (Or. L. p. 656), "concerning the liens of mechanics, laborers and other persons," was amended so as to provide, among other things that—"Every boat or vessel used in navigating the waters of this state * * * shall be liable and subjected to a lien * * * for all debts due to persons by virtue of a contract, expressed or implied, with the owners of a boat or vessel, or with the agents, contractors or sub-contractors, of such owner or any of them, or with any person having them employed to construct, repair, or launch such boat or vessel on account of labor done or materials furnished, by mechanics, tradesmen or others in the building, repairing, fitting and furnishing or equipping such boat or vessel;" * * * * Prior to this amendment the act only gave a lien for the value of labor or materials done or furnished in pursuance of a contract with "the master, owner, agent or consignee" of the boat. But when done or furnished for a "contractor, not such master, owner, agent or consignee," the parties had no lien and often lost the value of their labor or materials by the failure or dishonesty of the contractor. To remedy this evil the act was amended so as to give all persons a lien for labor or materials furnished in pursuance of a contract with any person authorized to employ labor or purchase materials to repair, fit, furnish or equip a boat engaged in the navigation of the waters of this state.

The agent, contractor, or subcontractor or the owner of a boat is necessarily authorized by the nature and terms of his agreement of employment to procure the labor and materials necessary to accomplish what he is authorized by or contracted with the owner to do thereon or thereabout. The very general phrase in the amendment—"any person having them [material men] employed to construct, repair," &c., must be construed to mean any person having them so employed by the authority of the owner.

For it cannot be supposed that the legislature intended that the "any person," mentioned in the section applies to any one other than a person within the category of persons just before enumerated—that is, a person sustaining some relation to the owner that authorizes him to employ the labor or purchase the material in question.

A mere trespasser or intruder upon the boat of another surely cannot fasten a lien upon it for the value of materials used in unauthorized repairs thereon.

As was said by this court in The Augusta (5 Am. L. T. Rep. 495) "'A person who puts work or materials into the ship of another as a mere trespasser or intruder, does not thereby become a material-man, entitled to a lien thereon for the value of such work or materials. But the consent of the owner may be implied from the circumstances of the case. For instance, when the respondent [the owner] contracted with Rutter to repair the vessel, it was necessarily implied that he might employ the libellants, and they might be so employed to work thereon. They are, therefore, not intruders or strangers to this vessel, but persons employed to work thereon with the implied consent of the owner."

It is admitted by the answer that at the time the libellants allege they labored on the City of Salem, she was in the possession of Steffen under a contract with the respondent to repair her. This being so, he was authorized to employ the libellants to do any work upon her within the scope of his contract. Assuming that the libellants were employed by Steffen and did the work on the boat as they allege, they thereby acquired a lien thereon for the value of their labor. Neither is it necessary that they should at the time of performing the labor have consciously intended to claim a lien therefor upon the vessel. The law gives the lien upon the performance of the labor as a means of securing the payment for it. It is an incident which the law attaches to the transaction and can only be waived or discharged by an agreement or understanding to that effect on the part of the person entitled to it.

These exceptions for impertinence are well taken. It matters not so far as the claims of the libellants are concerned what controversy exists between Steffen and his creditors or how the respondent is involved in it, whether as garnishee or otherwise. If they performed the work on the respondent's boat, as they allege they did, they have a lien thereon for its value irrespective of the state of the accounts between he and Steffen and are entitled to maintain this suit to establish their claims and enforce such lien by the sale of the boat.

They are not creditors of the respondent's and the only relation between him and them arises out of the fact that he is the owner of a boat upon which they claim a lien for labor. On that account he is entitled to contest the fact of the indebtedness or to show that the lien given by the law therefor has been waived or discharged, or failing in these to discharge the lien by the payment of whatever sum is found due the libellants and thereby prevent the sale of the boat.

The exception for insufficiency is disallowed and the exceptions for impertinence are allowed.

David Goodsell, for the libellants.

William H. Effinger, for the respondent.

THE CITY OF SALEM. Charles Brown libellant. No. 1186.

DEADY, J.

This suit is brought by Charles Brown against the City of Salem to enforce a lien thereon for the sum of $60 for labor done in repairing her at the request of Steffen, the contractor.

The pleadings and circumstances are the same as the foregoing and the same order will be made therein.

The contract for the Alaska mail goes to the Rev. J. P. Ludlow, who has been building a so-called "missionary ship" at Seattle, ostensibly for spreading the gospel abroad. It now turns out that she has been built as a speculation in mail contracts, and the church is largely ahead.

SHREWDNESS AND ABILITY.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of these Bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a Bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Sterling exchange on London bankers, 60 days, $4 84¾@4 85, do. documentary, $4 83¾@4 84.

Transfers—Par to 5.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Sterling exchange, prime bankers', long, $4 86½; short, $4 90½. Good commercial, from 1@1⅛c lower; documentary, 2a2½c lower.

Silver bullion 1 000 fine, per fine ounce, 114.

LONDON, March 8.—Consols, 101 11-16 money, 100 15-16 account.

Silver bullion, English standard, 925 fine, per fine ounce, 51⅞.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 7.—There is nothing new to note in the clipper freight market, which remains very quiet. The Hecla will sail on the 8th if the weather holds good. The A. D. Snow sailed yesterday. Her cargo comprises in part 600 cases oil, 212 coils rope, 150 bbls beer, 215 bbls whisky, 215 kegs nails, 450 boxes tin, 300 tons coal, 10 tons muck iron. Rates remain firm on a basis of $3 per ton for dead weight. Tonnage is still very scarce. The Yorktown is loading a full cargo of coal at this port.

Markets are rather quiet. Wheat is 1¼@2c lower, with holders anxious to cultivate business, and private reports from abroad concerning grain markets are, if anything, more unfavorable than public advices. Exporters' limits have been trimmed to conform to lower figures ruling abroad, and generally preclude the possibility of doing business without further material decline here; and especially for spring wheat, which is scarcely mentioned in recent orders.

Barley—Inactive.

Lard—Lower.

Pork—Neglected.

Rio Coffee—Quiet and firm.

Refined sugars sell fairly, but prices are a shade lower.

Teas—Dull under large offerings by auction.

Hides—Quiet and very firm.

Turpentine—Dull and firm.

Petroleum—Firm.

Crude, sperm and whale oils are unchanged.

Hops—Ordinary demand.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 7.—The market is steady and firm under continued favorable advices from London. Sales of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces are quoted at 43@45c for X and XX, choice selections at 46c; Michigan and Wisconsin XX, 42@43c; medium and No. 1 fleeces, 45@48c; combing and delaine selections firm at 46@50c for fine delaine and medium combing; unwashed combing is selling at ruinous prices as to quality, low and coarse is salable only at low figures, as the demand runs on fine grades. California wool is unchanged and stocks sold up close. Pulled wools are firm and have been in demand, with sales of low and good supers at 30@45c; choice eastern and Maine at 45@52½c. Foreign wool is firm, and sales of Australia, Montevideo and Cape have been at full prices.

Illinois Crop Report.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Inter-Ocean's springfield special:—The report of the state board of agriculture of the condition and acreage of winter wheat, shows the seeding for the next crop has been 2,676,000 acres, or 275,000 less than the previous crop. In northern divisions the area is 15 per cent., or 12,000 acres below last year, and the condition four per cent. above the average. In the central division, which raises half of the whole crop of the state, the condition is three per cent. above the average, and the acreage is ten per cent., or 150,000 below last year. In the southern division there has seldom been a more promising condition or better yield per acre in prospect.

EXECUTRIX SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY. In the matter of the estate of John Van Beurden, deceased. Notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of an order of the County Court of the State of Oregon for Multnomah county in the above estate, I will on Tuesday, March 7th, 1882, commence selling the stock of goods of John Van Beurden, deceased, now in the store No. 107 First street, Portland, Oregon. Such sale will be continued from day to day until all said stock is sold. The goods are inventoried at cost price, and will be sold absolutely at cost and for cash only. Parties desiring Diamonds, Watches, or any kind of jewelry, spectacles, opera glasses, silver-ware, and articles in that line, can purchase cheaper at this sale than at any retail jewelry store in Portland or San Francisco. Everything in the store is first-class and warranted as represented.
